ELEVATION
HARDSCAPES

COLORADO / 2026

Spaces to live in.

THE PROJECT LOOKBOOK

Paving. Water. Gathering. The details that bring an outdoor space together.

ELEVATION HARDSCAPES

Start with the place.

A path that feels natural. Room beside the water. A border that quietly ties the landscape together. The best outdoor spaces begin with a clear idea, then resolve the details.

03 The city courtyard

A compact garden, made generous.

06 The poolside room

Paving, shade and water in one composition.

09 The connected terrace

Pool edges, garden curves and a place for fire.

12 The considered arrival

An entry that respects the architecture.

16 The finishing details

Edges, scale and architectural connections.

20 More Colorado projects

Five projects. Five distinct design stories.

Use the Catalog and Specification Guide to select exact collections, colors, dimensions and installation requirements. Project titles describe the design story.

01 / THE CITY COURTYARD

A room within the city.

A continuous grey paving field makes room for gathering while a dark curved edge gives the garden a clear shape.

MODULAR PAVING / DARK BORDER / GARDEN EDGE

THE CITY COURTYARD / THE APPROACH

A path that belongs.

Carry the same field and border through the side passage. A consistent palette connects the route to the outdoor room beyond.

THE CITY COURTYARD / THE GATHERING PLACE

Let the edge do the work.

The curved border gives the seating area definition without interrupting the paving field. Keep the furniture low and the center open.

PAVING FIELD / CURVED ACCENT / LOW SEATING

An outdoor room beside the water.

The paving carries the eye from the pool to the shaded lounge. Pale field units, a darker water edge and a slender drain each have a distinct role.

PAVING

A quiet field connects the spaces.

SHADE

The structure defines the lounge.

WATER

The drain is part of the composition.

Give the water a clear frame.

A simple coping line lets the pool read as one calm shape. The varied paving modules bring movement to the surrounding terrace.

COPING

Keep the edge visually continuous.

PAVING

Let the module create the rhythm.

PALETTE

Balance a light field with deeper accents.

THE POOLSIDE ROOM / THE COMPOSITION

Carry the palette through.

Paving, coping and the raised spa are read together. Match their undertones before adding furniture, shade or decorative accents.

03 / THE CONNECTED TERRACE

Room around the water.

A warm, mixed-format field gives the terrace texture and scale. The pool edge stays simple so the paving and water can share the scene.

THE CONNECTED TERRACE / THE FRAME

The pool, framed.

A dark perimeter gives definition to the lighter field. The restrained contrast connects the pool terrace to the landscape beyond.

THE CONNECTED TERRACE / THE CURVED EDGE

Every edge considered.

A curved accent softens the planted island. The rectangular field stays legible beside it, with the pool coping forming a separate, precise line.

A softer line at the front door.

A curved landing meets the brick entry with a measured change of tone. A narrow border draws the outline without competing with the house.

ARCHITECTURE

Work with the existing brick and stone.

LANDING

Give the stair a generous arrival.

BORDER

Let a subtle change define the curve.

THE CONSIDERED ARRIVAL / THE GARDEN WALK

Follow the garden.

The same paving language continues along the approach. Gentle curves make the route feel deliberate and give planting a clear boundary.

THE CONSIDERED ARRIVAL / THE LANDING

A landing that welcomes.

The walk opens beside the stair, creating a comfortable pause at the entry. Soft grey paving lets the brick, stone and planting remain distinct.

THE CONSIDERED ARRIVAL / THE PAVING FIELD

Bring the walk home.

Repeated modules tie the approach together. A simple border and a clean stair connection give the entry a considered finish.

05 / THE FINISHING DETAILS

Carry the layout around.

Carry the paving language around the house. Align the field, border and small landings so a side route feels like part of the same design.

THE FINISHING DETAILS / A PLACE FOR FIRE

Give the room an anchor.

A stone-faced fireplace brings height and texture to the terrace. A quiet paving field and coordinated hearth tie the focal point to the outdoor room.

MASONRY / HEARTH / MODULAR PAVING

THE FINISHING DETAILS / SCALE AND RHYTHM

Set the rhythm.

A broad square module gives the terrace a calm rhythm. Clean alignment and deliberate cuts connect the field to the stair and the planted perimeter.

THE FINISHING DETAILS / TRANSITIONS

Resolve the transitions.

Broad stairs and a large paving field need to be planned together. Coordinate the landing, finished levels, border and edge restraint as one sequence.

Colorado, in context.

Five projects. Different settings. The same attention to the paving field, the edge, and the way an outdoor space comes together.

21 LITTLETON

Terraces with a view.

Paving, spa, walls and fire in a connected landscape.

24 MORRISON

Make the grade useful.

Split-face walls, curved stairs and distinct outdoor rooms.

27 LONGMONT

A walk with rhythm.

Mixed formats, garden curves and a quiet contrasting edge.

30 BROOMFIELD

The compact outdoor lounge.

A defined gathering space with coordinated steps and walls.

33 LITTLETON

At the meadow edge.

Warm paving and planting that open toward the landscape.

Terraces with a view.

Paving gives each level its own purpose while wide stairs connect the whole composition. The spa, lounge and fire features are read as parts of one outdoor room.

THE FIELD

Modular concrete paving connects the levels.

THE EDGES

Walls and caps give each terrace definition.

THE FOCAL POINTS

Water and fire establish gathering places.

Keep the connections quiet.

A restrained paving field carries the eye between the house, stairs and garden. A measured border defines the composition without competing with the view.

DESIGN MOVE

Repeat the same paving palette across levels.

DETAIL

Coordinate borders with stair and landing lines.

EXPERIENCE

Keep the route through the space legible.

Let the details carry into dusk.

Step and wall lighting reveal changes in level as daylight falls. The restrained paving and masonry palette gives the evening scene a clear architectural structure.

LIGHTING

Make transitions and steps readable.

PALETTE

Let warm masonry balance the grey paving.

ARRIVAL

Connect the approach to the wider landscape.

Make the grade useful.

A split-face wall makes room for a usable terrace and gives the planting a clear edge. The rough wall face adds depth beneath the quieter paving field.

WALL

Elevation Tribute Split-Face / Timeless.

PAVING PALETTE

Elevation Grand Discover XL / Vision.

ACCENT PALETTE

Elevation Elements / Timeless.

A generous way between levels.

Curved stairs carry the wall geometry through the change in grade. Contrasting surface textures distinguish the walking line from the retaining wall.

TEXTURE

Split-face walling brings depth and shadow.

PROFILE

Rounded coping softens the stair line.

CONNECTION

Resolve paving, risers and caps together.

Give each terrace a purpose.

Smaller concrete modules define this intimate gathering area. The half-circle layout creates a distinct room within the larger sequence of terraces.

PAVING

Elevation H2O Pro / Timeless.

WALLS

Elevation Tribute Split-Face / Timeless.

PLANNING

Coordinate the full permeable assembly.

A walk with rhythm.

A light mixed-format field meets a deeper border. Curves give the garden a deliberate outline while the paving carries a consistent rhythm to the entry.

PROJECT PALETTE

Elevation Grand Discover and Discover.

BORDERS

Elevation Elements.

FINISHING

Coordinated Grand Crest coping.

Let planting soften the line.

Grasses bring movement beside a precise paving edge. The contrast is restrained: one field, one border, and a route that feels natural within the garden.

FIELD

Keep the paving visually continuous.

BORDER

Use contrast to guide the route.

PLANTING

Soften the edge without hiding it.

Design the junction.

A curved accent turns an intersection into a considered detail. Plan the field modules, border cuts and stair arrival as one continuous composition.

GEOMETRY

Carry curves cleanly through the junction.

SCALE

Let the larger field remain legible.

DETAIL

Resolve narrow cuts before installation.

A complete room in a small footprint.

A defined paving terrace makes a comfortable gathering place beneath the house and deck. A deeper perimeter color gives the outdoor room a clear edge.

FIELD

Elevation Grand Discover / Allure.

BORDERS

Elevation Elements / Reflection.

WALL PALETTE

Elevation Tribute Smooth / Reflection.

Frame the place to gather.

The overhead view makes the design easy to read: a calm field, a dark frame, and furniture arranged around one focal point.

PROPORTION

Size the field around the gathering area.

CONTRAST

Keep the frame distinct and simple.

COLOR

Let furniture provide a restrained accent.

Carry the palette down the steps.

The dark border continues around the landing and planting pocket. Smooth wall faces and coordinated caps give the lower entrance a considered finish.

CONNECTION

Repeat the border and cap palette.

WALL CHARACTER

A smooth face suits the compact space.

ARRIVAL

Keep the landing clear and generous.

At the meadow edge.

Warm paving connects dining and lounging beside the garden. The patio opens toward the landscape, with planting used to soften the transition.

PAVING

Elevation Grand Discover / Enlighten.

PALETTE

Warm neutrals and soft planting.

DESIGN

One continuous field connects the uses.

A field with quiet movement.

Subtle color movement gives the mixed-format field depth. A simple perimeter lets the surface remain the focus beside the open meadow.

MATERIAL

Elevation Grand Discover.

COLOR

Enlighten.

DETAIL

Coordinate the paving and planted edge.

LITTLETON / A PLACE TO PAUSE

Leave room for the view.

A simple seat at the planted edge gives the paving a purpose beyond circulation. Keep the palette warm and the composition open to the landscape.
